Both units in the appeal to the Government to be firm in this exercise of its power, and to the people to be true to the demands of the crists. And so they will be. The draft will precesd. The Government will designate by lot the citizens whose services it needs. There will be generally a willing compliance with the demand, but where there is resistance it will only the more strongly prove what terrible power dwells in the Government of the people, when the people are in earnest for self-preservation. It is one thing for Copperhead zealots to rave and rant faction to bear on the election in November; it will be quite another thing to bar the path of the President with the devices of treason. The pulse of the nation beats firm and full now, for the end of the trial is near, and during will be the men, and dread their fats, who interpose now to save the recollion from its fullsting stroke. THE MARCH TO HOLLY SPRINGS.

Aside from skirmishing and picket firing, the march from Memphis to Holly Springs, the march from Memphis to Holly Springs, the march from Memphis to Holly Springs, was made without serious disturbance. Our losses in these skirmishes were comparatively few, only numbering one or two cavalrymen wounded. The men bore the march well, and the cavalry did its duty as well as usual. Part of the troops went to Holly Springs by rail, part by the wagon road, but all centered there about the 6th of August. No enersy was found at Holly Springs. Forrest hastily rotreated, as was reported, in the direction of the Hatchle River.

River.

STIMMEN ON THE MATCHIE.

The column halted at Holly Springs three or four days to recruit strength find prepare rations. On about the 12th of August (Friday), Gen. Mann advanced toward the Hatchie. He had not meved far when he came upon Forrest, with a force of some five thousand cavalry. He gave battle, a brief but brilliant engagement ensued, and after some sixty minutes Gen. Forrest, finding he could no longer stand against no sharp-set.

HATTERED. AUGIST 11—9 P. M.

This day has been big with history. We have cut the rebel commanications divided their army, and repulsed a heavy and determined assant on our right made by Harder's use Lee's corps—the flower of the rebel army is Georgia. The success of our grand movement is no longer problematical; it is only a question of how complete and crushing the victory will be.

During last night the tramp and rumole of a passing column were heard is from of our relit and center. It was the massing of two rebel corps on our right for assault.

At 3 o'clock this morning Newton moved his division into column, and followed Kimball and Wood in an easterly direction. Arriving at the edge of a large field, a strong rebel line of works was plainly discerned before us on the west bank of Crooked or Mid. Creek. Wood, who had the salvance, promptly moved up his artillery, and deploying als skirmishers drove the enemy out and took possession. The skirmishers pushed on, croosed the creek, and were acon moving right shead on the double quick in pursuit of the easterny. Shots were exchanged, but no casualties occurred.

Crossing the creek at Lee's Mill, Schodled's crossed the creek, and were accurately the shead on the double quick in pursuit of the exemy. Shots were exchanged, but mo committee occurred.

Crossing the creek at Lee's Mill, Schofield's column moved off to the left toward Rouge and Reade, where he struck the Macon Railroad at 2 p. m. Stanley struck it with als advance about the same time. Arriving on the same time. Hane Moeting in Southern Illinote, the railrand, the men of the two corps commenced throwing up works, while details tors up and burned the track for ever four miles.

The men had encountered as opposition after grossing the creek, but aktronishers were threwn out to prevent surprise. By dark strong works had been constructed, facing east and south, and all night the desirection costinued.

FIRMOR ASSAULTS ON HOWARD.

But to the grand event of the day, At daybreak the 3d brigade in hizzen's division, 15th army corps, advanced galiantly, driving the enemy from a promisent hill, which gave our artillery command of Jonesbore and the railroad, dow less than one half mile distant. A brigade of Osterbans' division reinforced the brigade holding the hill, and the troops fell to fortifying the position immediately. The rest of the 15th corps was rapidly brought into position on the new line, Hazen occupying the hill nearest the enemy, the other divisions. Harrow's and Osterbans', on his disaks and in reserve. Ges. Corse's division of the 16th corps was brought forward across Film Creek and joined Logan, and Gen. Wood's division of the 17th corps also crossed and won't into position as the left of the corps was brought forward across Film Creek and joined Logan, and Gen. The assault was a desperate case. The rebels were playing their last card, and they fought as if, foreseon failure, they contred death. They swarmed through the waving corn with fisuoting banners, and rushed on our works without wavering under the deadly fire pouring into thein thin waving corn with insucting banners, and rushed on our works without wavering under the deadly fire pouring into their thinning ranks.

But in spite of their superhuman efforts, not a man of Lee's corps placed a foot on our parapet. Major General Patton Anderson, commanding Hindman's old division in Lee's corps, fell mortally wounded within thirty yards of our works. At the same moment, his horse, a spiendid animal, toppied ever, with a half dozen builets dappling his glistening coat with blood. Brigadier General Cummings, of Stevenson's division, also fell desperately wounded in the assanit. Two of General Anderson's staff were killed, and lay near where he fell.

The force of the first assault was no sooner brokes than assecond line eams surging up to meet with no better fate. Again and again the enemy broke, and again and again they were rallied and led back. The fighting was desperate for two hours, but at no time can there be said to have been any danger in it, for the enemy had struck us where we were strongest. General Howard sent two regiments of General Wood's brigade, and Colonel Bryant's brigade of the 17th corps, to Hazen's assistance, but the gallant Onloun would have weathered the sterm alone. Hazen explained on hundred and thirty prisoners and two stand of colors, besides many rebel wounded. It is estimated that the enemy has he had to the same of the right of Hazen, Harrow's division was heavily engaged but the assault was much feelber, though it cost the enemy heavily. Cleburne's division failing to make any impression on Harrow, marched down to our extreme right and stlacked Klipstrick, holding the bridge over Flint River. On the 10th day of July there were tried, found guilty, and hanged, at the above named camp, sir men, for assaulting, robbing, and murdering their fellow prisoners. A court was organized by order of the rebel General Winder, (the greatest brute on earth,) consisting of a Judge Advocate, at.

Peter McCullock, of the 16th Illinois cavalry, acted as Judge Advocate, O. W. Carpenter, of Michigan, as attorney for the prosecution, and H. C. Higginsen, late commissioner from the prisoners, as attorney in defense. The men were all hung on one scaffold and at the same time, without a disascrating voice in the camp. The two rebel Corps at Jonesboro as nanded by Hardee. Hood remained manded by Hardes. Hood remained in At-isnta, laboring under the hallucination that he could hold the city with our whole army in his rear. He, ne doubt, instructed Hardes to assault us whenever he came upon us. Such are his factics. The battles of the 20th, 12d and 28th of July, and the 31st of August, have a distinguished family rescublance. All desperate assaults—all bitter defeats for Hood. SEPTEMBER 1.

We have our information from Mr. Highboon, commissioner, who is now in Chicaton. The names of the men hanged are William Collins, disa Moseby, of Pennsylvania, William Delany, John Sarsfield, Jerry Sullivan, Andrew Muir, of the gunboat Water Witch, and William Curlis, of the gunboat Cowhatan. The proceedings of the court-martial are now being published in pamphiet orm in New York.

There are now 35,000 Union prisoners at hodersonville, quartered on a tract of wenty-four acres of land, without any bar-acks or covering of any kind. Near by is a wamp about forty yards wide, on both sides if a creek; 6,950 deaths have occurred tithis five months, and the mortality is still arge. The prevailing diseases are scorbutus and diarrhes. They are neither well fed nor excelly clothed, baving no blankets, and eding obliged to sleep on the ground. Another day of grand, decisive victory, har whole army turned this morning, like n aroused giant, upon the rebels at Jones-oro, and at the hour I write (9 p. m.) we boro, and at the hour I write (9 p, m) we have them inclosed on three sides. We dare not hope to find them still here when day breaks to-morrow.

The men were at once spread along the line fronting the track and at a given signal the trea and rails were lifted from their beds and turned over like the sod from a plow, the whole length of a brigade front. In a half hour, over a mile and a nile was torn up and destroyed. Another advance took place for a mile and a shif, when the operation was repeated. In this manner the two divisions marched, tearing up and burning every rall from Rough and Ready to within two miles of Jonesboro. A distance of ten miles, where they formed a junction with Wood, and advanced to position, Kimball's division of the lith Corps, with Newton on his left. Wood's division was in reserve. The 25d Corps, which followed the 4th, came up about this time on the left of the 4th, and went into position. The line thus formed was something in the form of the capital letter A—the Army of the Tennessee on the left, the 4th and 25d Corps on the right, and the letter. NEWTON'S DIVISION
Was formed with Bradley on the left, Opedyke on the center, and Wagner on the right. Moving through a dense woods of three hundred yards, the whole division encountered the rebel skirmishes who were hurriedly drivers back upon a large corn field, across which the whole division charged in gallant style, driving the enemy frem their barriendes and capturing about fifty prisoners.

The advance was in two lines. General Bradley's command captured a rebel hospital, with 200 wounded, from the division of Major General Anderson, who was killed the previous day by Howard. Lient Cox and Capt. Tinney, of Wagner's staff, captured six prisoners in person.

motion very early, and I had no chases to make notes. The division, however, advanced behind Wagner, but as Stanler had to swing round his corps on the left, Kimball being on the extreme left, did not have to advance far. He drove the enemy's skirmishes, however, in good style, capturing a few prinoners and their skirmish pits, with slight loss. The testal loss in the corps did not exceed fifty men, only five or six of whom were killed. SPLENDID VICTORY BY DAVIS CORPS. SPLENDID VICTORY OF DAYE CORPS.
Davis formed his line with the 1st Division, Brig. Gen. Carlin, on the left, and the 3d Division, Brig. Gen. Morgan, joining the 15th Corps on the right. Beird was in reserve. The line was formed in the edge of the woods, and the centre somewhat retired, facing a large cornield half a mile wide, at the south east edge of which, on commanding ridges, the enemy's line was formed, covering Jonesbore. The rabel alternatives were in the ravines in the centre of the field. The brigates on the line were as follows:

I have not time to dwell upon details; suffice it to say that Davis whole line earried the rebel works, some brigadea carrying two and three lines, which were very strong and protected by a difficult sussesses when the men charged with difficulty.

The regular brigade carried their line quite carly, after one regiment had been alignity thrown off its gmard, by a deadly veiley of grape and cannister, and got out of amaunition while holding it. majority. This is 5,000 more than the Republican majority in September 1800; and exceeds the great triumph of last year. How is the house of Orange, New Jersey, and how are you, Little Mac? Copper stock will go down, until the bottom dreps out of the concern in Norember. The down-caster of yesterday will send a chill through all the peace-sneak crew. In a few weeks Ohio, Pennsylvania and Indiana will speak in thunder tones against a disunion peace. THE NEWA John A. Peters, in a speech at Port

d, Maine, "brought down the honse" in the remark: "If McClellan couldn't ce Richmond, making Washington his take Richmose, making washington his base, you may safely swear he will sense take Washington, making Richmond his base."

Preparations are making for an immense Mass Meeting of the Union men of Illinois, at Springtele, on the 5th of October. It is the intention of those who have the matter in hand, to made this the largest political gathering over held in the State of Illinois. Delegations will be present from over the matter in the state of Illinois. gathering ever held in the State of Illinois. Delegations will be present from enery town and precinet in the State, and arrangements are being perfected to accommodate at least 50,000 visitors. Every candidate on the State Treket will be present, and eminent speakers from abroad. It is expected that the railroads will reduce their rates of fare at least one half. Let every Union voter in the State consider himself booked for this demonstration.

Even if you are bitten slightly in produce, and are in a little on gold, and the loser by the panic in the markets, you can but reJoice at present supects if you have a spark of loyalty. Why, nan, the goed old ship Union rights herself again. A spanking loyal North wind is blowing. We are not going ashore, and the hopes of the wreekers and the hunters for salvage will not be realized. The fall of gold means just that. The people are rallytag round the flag; mark the steady siream that is pouring down to sustain our-boys in blue. The meanged men are coming forward with their aid to the Government; see how the loan has been takes. Everything is going on wall.
Maine has given her center shot to the peace smeaks. Gold falls because Atlants fell; because we are pushing the rebels hard; because the deep laid schemes of the Northern Somebody will be hurt, but the Union will be saved.

There are shundant and satisfactory evi-dences that long before November there will be but two parties in the field, and that the third party of Fremont will be cut down to the balf tribe of John Cochrane. We shall the baif tribe of John Cochrano. We shall be prepared any day for the publication of Fremont's letter of withdrawal, his quit claim to all and any share of the loyal vote in the counting election. Between Loyalty and Tresson, between the Government and the Bebellion, between the Party of Lincoln and the hordes of Jeff. Davia, there is no middle ground for loyal feet to tread. And Fremont is certainly loyal even if other qual titles of greatness are denied him.

MILITARY MEN AGAINST CIVIL

Heratio Seymour in his speech at the New Tork McCellian extification meeting, asks this question, which, as he really claims to be ignorant in the premises, we propose to answer not with assertions but with proofs:

"Wey is st, my friends, that there has been this miter failure in height this war to a successful end. It must be either the fault of the policy of the Georgianent, et waves to the fault of those who bear arms in capport of our flag. It must be size either to the civil publicy of the Geovernment, or not come up to the full expectation of the public."

We propose to prove that neither the policy of the Government, nor the fighting of the civil of the self-decreased and the self-decreased as a fault, but that the very man whom they had met to exalt and ratify as their candidate for the Provadent was responsible not for an "utter failure," for there has been mone, but for a failure of entire success in conducting the war.

sponsible not on the failure of entire success in conducting the war.

A joint committee consoluting in part of Democrats and Republicans was appointed by the Senate and House of Representatives, to answer in embassions for all 88 symon's question and seported on April 6, 1863. They say:

'In the history of that army (the Army of the Potomsc) is to be found all that is necessry to emable your committee to report upon the conduct of the war.' Had that army fulfilled all that a vessions and conding people were just. Sed in expecting from it, the rebellion had long since been erushed, and the blessings of peace refored to this matton. The fallure of that army to fulfill those expectations has prolonged Julis contest to the present time, with all its expenditure of life and treasure, for it has to a great extent neutralized, if not en'irely destroyed, the logitimate truth which would otherwise have been reased from our aloritous victories in the West."

McClellan des not ease in that you'lly of a formeral which mables him to know when to opring."

General William B. Frankfin testifies to General Summer's judgment of McClellan.

"General Summer having command of the whole force there (at White Oak Swamp) sent a division lato the woods which attacked the enemy and repulsed them. I called back Smith's division and sent one of his brigades in on the lest and we repulsed to enemy there. It was then about dark. In the meantime I had sent backward to General McC ellan that as soon as the enemy were repulsed I thought we should fall back and get White Oak Swamp between us said the enemy. General McClellan's written order to that effect, saying that General McClellan's written order to that effect, saying that General McClellan's written order from I dender who had brought the order from I dender who had brought the order from I meet more than the officer who had brought the order from I we could wait there until the next moratine effect who had brought the order from I we could wait there will the order from I we could wait there until the next moratine effect who had brought the order from I we could wait there will the order from I we could wait there will the order from I we could wait there will the order from the officer who had brought the order from I we could be successed, thus testifies through Franklin that at White Oak Swamp that night, and we therefore went back. But Gene Sumner was in wery bad humor about it."

Forter testifies that at Gene Mills his retreat was unnecessary. Sumner, though Tie county the order from Malvera Hill. Senator Sprague, attached to the army as a staff officer, and Frince de Joinville, a member of McClellan's etfective organization of the army, which made every battle a blumder, every march a cannined jumble, and every retrext a stam-defective organization of the army, which made every battle a blunder, every march a confused jumble, and every retrest a stam-

The brave Philip Kearney, was exceeded every other efficient in the Potomac army in experience, having rendered many years of conspicuous services in the French army in experience, having rendered many years of conspicuous services in the French army in Algiers and in Italy, surpassed all others in the flerceness of his denunciations of McCivelian's imbecility and, as he termed it, stupidity. When after the victory at Malvern Hill, wen while McCivelian was en board the gunboat, the order to retreat to Harrison's Landing was received, Gam. Kearney said: "I. Phillip Kearney, an old office, and the said of the property of the said of the results of the said of the sai moved him. McClellan was not removed until Halleck, an equally Pro Slavery "De-mocratic" and conservative officer with him-self, finally, as General-in-Chief, removed bim. Porter sione, of all McClellan's Gen-rals, has not condemned him, except in so far as his traitorous support is the werst of condemnation.

In such irrefragable military testimeny as the above we have the answer to Gerorner Seymour's question, who has caused our failures hitherto. Every other army but that of the Potomachas done even more than was anticipated of it. Many of these officers unite in testifying that McClellan's cowardly system of fighting tended to make cowards of the army. He, his system, and his army alone have failed. It is because he so failed that the war is not yet ended, and it is out of gratitude for his failures that the Peace Sneaks of the country want him as President. of gratitude for his failures that the Peace Sneaks of the country want him as President, so that he can still continue to cover our cause with failure, and to secure the disse-lation of the Union. Mr. Seymour, is your question answered?

The town seemed to run to benners and music. Three immense unional flags were anapended across the main thoroughfare, each bearing the names of Lincels and Johnson, Oglesby and the Deacon, and at intervals other bunners bearing appropriate inscriptions were hung from the upper windows of the most important business blocks. There were flies and drums, and flies without drums, and drums without flies. These were bands that were of brass and bands that were of brass and bands that were of brass and bands that were string. Then there was a grand procession in which everybody and his wife joined, long strings of country wayons filled with afungy men and no less sturdy and hicoming maidens, dressed in fabrics as variagated, as to color, as the rainbow. I noticed that many of them wore white waists and blue skirts, or blue waists and white skirts, thus torning, with their roay cheeks, the national combination of colors—the red, white and blue. For an bour this procession paraded the principal streets, led off by marshals of the First Napoleon. All this had an end, and then the procession dispersed. The marshals rade along the streets, prochaiming that, in the grow adjousing the Cent. House Square, a free lunch was agread for the hungry multitude. There were aumered wenders of glit jewetry displaying their wavestemptingly is a class case upon the stiewark, and offering to give say man or woman a chance it, win the prices by the "throw" of the disposable "trowy" and they have flied in other impossible "throws" with invention notes of the marshal, as acouncing that disner was ready, reused them from the fauntious pursuit, and after a momentary struggle between acquisitiveness and hunger, the latter triumphed, and they other good work, was the result of the labors of the Union women of Morrison, and they dearre to be especially remembured therefor.

It is a common saying of the people of Morrison, that the great Architect of the Universe constructed the public square expressly for a Union meeting. Let me describe it. From the railroad to the feet of a circular hill covered with a young grewth of oak, the ground is level. This hill is the public square, and on its summit, where, from the cupola of the infraded structure, a beautiful view of the infraded structure, a beautiful view of the contry for miles around can be gained, the citizens of Whitesides are building a magnificent Court House.

The platform was built at the fost of and fronting the hill, so that when the people were assembled they roce tier above tier, like an andience in an amphitheatre. It was a beautiful spot and capitally arranged for the speakers.

The meeting was organized by the choice of Hua S. B. Petterson, Mayor of Sterring, President, and H. G. Grattan, A. A. Terrell, and Charles limits, Secretaries.

A Committee on Recotations was named, consisting of James Dinsmore, Scisco Mason, Joseph Goless, Washington Law and J. Racket, Lumbards and Rickey sang "Raily Round by the Flag," and the surreless commenced.

Mr. Lincoln had arrested traitors for known of chicologity, McChelian had "arbitrarily arrested" an entire Leplaisure of a covereign State. He showed that while it could never be show that Mr. Lincoln had ever interfered with the freedom of the hallot now, McChelian had used the military power to prevent Maryland Democrate from voting for their favorite conducte. He showed that McClelian as long age as 181 urged President Lincoln to stop volunteering and exforce the draft, a recommendation he strongly renewed in October, 1820. He showed that McClelian salves of the enemy under the plex of military accessity, six months before the President issued in Knancipation Prochamation. He showed that the flocing and pressiently urged by McClelian long before the President deeded to adopt that pelicy. The rumarus of Mr. Brosswere well received.

Mr. Ward made a short speech, but it bristled all over with points like a porcupine. He insisted upon the importance of the issues involved in the present canrass, and then stracked the Coopperhead platform, showing in vigorous and terse language its cities of the sense involved in the present canrass, and then stracked the Coopperhead platform, showing in vigorous and terse language its cities of the morning certainties, and its manifest inconsistencies and abstractics. The New York Independent's Appeal for Lincoln and Johnson.

The New York Independent was among the foremost and most pointed of our leading journals in dissenting from the policy of ranominating President Lincoln. It has supported him rather tamely since he was nominated; but the Chicago platform impels it to plunge heart and soul into the contest, as is evinced in the following leader this week:

EIGHTAIN STANTON ON THE DRAFT.

To a gentleman of national reputation, who recently came here to urge the postponement of the draft in his State for his political reasons, Secretary Stanton made answer substantially in this wise, "No., str., the reinforcement of the armies is more essential to the welfars of the nation than the success of any State election; besides, I think you are altogether wrong in your opinion as to the effect of the draft among loyal people; T believe "any see very plainly the necessity of reinforcing our armies, and that they will not object to the enforcement of the draft where the quotas are not affield by volunteering."

As we stood by it steadfastly when to do so was to court persecution and to invite oppression, we shall surely not desert it now, in the day of its strength, when, in fast, it ruies the political situation. The suffrages of the Peace men are essential to the triumph of the Democracy; but the Feace men cannot give their suffrages in violation of their principles. To be true, therefore, to the Democracy, we must insist that its principles be honesdy represented in this cauvas and fairly put at issue at the polls. The Daily Ness, however great its influence among those that accept it as the organ of their political creed, could not render that induses available in support of the dectrice of armed coercion of the States, and if it could, it would not. The Federal steam frigats Niagara brought up in Dover Roads this morning having on board Captain Withycombe and thirty-three men belonging to the screw steamer Georgia, which is the property of a British merchant resident in Liverpool, and was captured by the Niagara while asking under the British flag, on Monday, the 18th of Angues, about twenty midgioff Libbon.

The capture was man'd by the commodore in commond of the Niagara on the ground that the Georgia was formerly a belingerent ship, and in the service of the Contederate States, as the celebrated crister of the same name. It seems, however, that the Georgia was purchased some lew months ago by Mr. E. Bates, a shipowner of Liverpool, and some nice questions of an international character will therefore possibly arise out of this proceeding on the part of the Niagara.

The Georgia, it appears, was under orders for Lisbon, having been chartered by the Portuguese Governament for the purpose of canveying passeograr between that place and the African coast of the West Indies. She had been regularly fitted up for this braile, having accommodation for thirty first class and twenty second class passeogra. There is reason to believe that the American Commodor was kept informed of the object and destination of the vessel, and that ane had been closely watched at Liverpool. This was her first royage under her new ownership, and her crew had all received a monto's pay in advance. Nothing masual occurred till she arrived about twenty miles off Lisbon, when the Niagara was seen apparently wanting for her. Capstain Withycombe did not deviate from his course only however, and that ane had been closely watched at Liverpool. This was shortly afterwards boarded by an arroed boat's crew is accommodor. Grave Charges Against the Keung Napoleon.

Washinston, Sept. 2.

To the Editor of the Washington Telegraph:
Sin: I am informed that Gen. Geo. B. McClellan has resigned his commission as Major General in the regular army, and I am, therefore, at liberty to make public the following statement fouthing his character as an officer: In the summer of 1802 i was near the headquarters of the General mcChief. He was sisting on a camp stool is front of his marquee, and with his head in his hands, he remarked: "Lee is a great man—a great General—a very great General!" His tone was despondent, and was cased by the news of Jackseun's raid up the Shenemdonh valley. A similar movement in these latter days does not seem to make Gen. Grant unhapoy.

Later, during the same summer, I was at Harrison's Landing with the Federal army, and obtained the following facts from a staff officer, and one of the ablest and most distinguished Judges New York ever produced, who, I believe, was an ove witness of most of what he related. While our array was mowing down the rebole at Maivern Hill, as they game to the proposal is eleep, General McChellan went on board of the fron-elad Gelens with a proposal is the gonession to Raileck to Harrison's Landing. The sequel is known.

Now, aft. I challenge a denial of this matter, and it cannot be made in a satisfactory way. The facts will descend to posterity to prove Gen. McClellan to have been a weak and incompetent American General, and to be incompetent, and yet assume the rank of a General, has been set down by the highest military suthority as equal, if not worse, than treason per w.

I am, sir, with great respect, your obedient servant,

Gen. Butler on the Chicago Platform.

Gen. Butler passed through Boston yesterday, on his way to rejoin his command. We learn that he expresses the atmost detectation of the Chicago pistform, which condemns the continuous of the war for the Union, and recommends a cessation of hostilities, as paying the way citize for disunction or the establishment of a military desponism in the country, at the head of which which we have the provided thinks the position of affairs to be highly encouraging. who writes to the Jewral of that city as follows:

For the thoughtful consideration of all those who desire an honorable and lasting pears to result from the termination of that war, I beg leave to submit the following conversations held between myself and several leading men of the peace party, at the Voorbees House, the evening after the interpreted in the "great peace movement" of the peace convention. Being a peaceable man myself, as well as a man in favor of an honorable peace, I was of course deeply interested in the "great speacins of peace received a staggering blow when, by mere accident, I became a listener to the following words, uttered by one of these apostice, a preminent public speaker, and addressed to a select circle of trusty followers:

"I tell you gentlemen, Jefferson Davis is aghing the battles of the liberties of our country, and he must and shall succeed. I told Gov. Scymour so this morning, and he said, "Mr.—I am aware of it; but, shat can I do? I am now and shall succeed. I told Gov. Scymour so this morning, and he said, "Mr.—I am aware of it; but, shat can I do? I am now and shall succeed. I true pop le are against me, and the administration have the whole army to back them.' Gentlemen, we have got to raise a counter-revolution, and overthrow the whole caused abolition hord." Beginning to doubt the sincerity of the peace professions of these men. I straight wy sought occasions of these men. I straight wy sought occasions of these men. I straight wy sought occasions of these men. I straight wy sought occasion to propound the following question to several of Vallandigham's most confidential and ardent supporters:

First, I saked, in a straightforward way, of S. iator Lawrence, "Are you willing to grant the South lis independence, provided that, in the proposed the following the straight of seif convention of the whole Union, have fined?" "Yes, most certainly," was the reply. "This war must be stopped. The Federal Government has no power to coerce a sovereign State into a usion contrast t Do you wrigh any overstance to this from your Government?

"Xe, sir. We bring no overstance and have no authority from our Government and have no authority from our Government, between the new what terms will be acceptable to. He, he has well as the same will be acceptable to. He, he has well as the same will be acceptable to. He, he has well they at all harmonians with lift. Lincoln's viewar's well report them to him, and no open the door for official negatiations."

"Are you nequalisted with My. Lincoln's viewar's One of us in, ruly,"

"Did life. Lincoln, in any vay, enthusian you to come have?"

"No, sir. We cann with his pain. but not by his request. We can, distantify, we have no official, or uncombain and hority, We cause as men and thought of the same and the contraction, not and discontains, but one and finally discontains, not and discontains, and a finally discontains.

And that is all that the Presiden would like to have him refer our request to Jest. Days." And for that reason Gen. Grant heacted in his note to Gen. Lee the clause: "If not consistent for you to grant the request here asked, I would beg that this be referred to Prasisent Days for his actione?" on which clause Mr. Benjamin has attempted to build so much.

I have been under no pledge of scorecy as to three facts, but there have been reasons why I have not herefore thought best to disclose them. Their present publication seems to be accessive to shield Mr. Benjamin (I), and to show conclusively that our "mission to Riefmond" was our own private affair, and undertaken altogether on our own scount and responsibility.

Since writing the above, I notice a paragrap, capied from the National Republications withing about "the Gillmore-laquess mission." All of these things I believe to be correct, except the statements that Gen. Lee gave us "a safe conduct to Richmond and return," and that "the Prasident, after repeated solicitations, consented to give Mears, Gilmore and Jaquess a pass through our military lines."

The Weshington editor must have misunderstood Mr. Lincoln on these last points. He could not have made the statements, for the green left rue. We had no safe conduct from Gen. Lee Gin. Lee To a pass, and promptly, and with no hestation, he gave the as promptly, and with no hestation, he gave the as promptly, probably, as he would have given it to any one he was gird to be rid of. I do not mean the President shall be banged for any of mis, therefore I make this unimportant correction.
